INTRODUCTION

The tables in this volume include data on the railroad retirement and railroad unemployment insurance programs for fiscal year 1984, calendar year 1983, unemployment benefit year 1983-84, and, in some tables, for earlier years.

The tables are presented in four sections: financial statistics; retirement and survivor benefits; unemployment and sickness benefits; and employment, compensation and coverage statistics. Each section is introduced by a summary of the subject matter which defines the major terms used in the tables and limitations of the data presented in the tables.

Section A -- Financial Statistics

The tables in this section generally present data on financial operations under the Railroad Retirement and Railroad Unemployment Insurance Acts for fiscal year 1984 and for varying numbers of prior years.

The main source of financing the railroad retirement program is a payroll tax paid by employers and employees. Railroad retirement taxes and benefits are paid on a two-tier basis. Employers and employees pay tier I taxes at the same rate as social security taxes, and the amount of earnings subject to the tax corresponds to the prevailing social security taxable maximums. Tier II taxes finance benefits payable over and above social security levels, but earnings subject to the tax are restricted to the social security taxable maximums which would have been applicable under continuation of pre-1977 social security law. Both employers and employees pay tier II taxes, but at different rates.

In calendar year 1983, a tier I tax rate of 6.70 percent was paid by employers and employees on compensation up to $2,975 per month. The tier II tax rate was paid by employers and employees at rates of 11.75 percent and 2.0 percent, respectively, and was levied on monthly earnings up to $2,225. During 1984, employers paid 7 percent, while employees continued to pay 6.70 percent for tier I taxes. The 0.3 percent credit given to employees was made up by transfers from Federal general revenues as provided under social security amendments. Tier II tax rates increased to 12.75 percent and 2.75 percent for employers and employees, respectively, for 1984. The monthly earnings subject to these taxes were $3,150 for tier I and $2,350 for tier II. The tier I rates include taxes that finance the hospital insurance portion of Medicare; that tax rate for both employees and employers was 1.30 percent for both 1983 and 1984.

Under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974, appropriations were authorized from general revenues for the phase-out costs of vested dual railroad retirement-social security benefits. The annual appropriation for fiscal year 1984 amounted to $420 million. An additional $629 million was transferred from general revenues in fiscal year 1984 for shortfalls in prior vested dual benefit appropriations.

Additional income is derived from Federal income taxes on tier I, tier II, and vested dual benefits, from interest on invested funds and from the financial interchange with the social security system. The experience under the latter arrangement is presented in table A-4. Under this arrangement, the social security trust funds are, in effect, credited with taxes received on railroad payrolls, and charged with the additional benefits and administrative costs they would have paid if railroad employment had been covered under the social security program. Financial interchange determinations are made jointly by the Board and the Department of Health and Human Services on an annual basis. Separate determinations are made with respect to the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, Disability Insurance, and Hospital Insurance Trust Funds.

The railroad unemployment and sickness benefit programs are financed by contributions from railroad employers, based on a percentage of their employees' taxable earnings. Beginning in 1984, the taxable earnings base for those programs was the first $600 of each employee's monthly earnings. The base had been $400 per month from June 1959 through December 1983. The contribution rate, which depends on the balance in the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Account, was 8.0 percent for both 1983 and 1984.

Fiscal years 1976 and earlier began July 1 and ended June 30. Beginning October 1976, fiscal years begin October 1 and end September 30. July-September 1976 was a transition quarter and data for this quarter are generally listed separately.

In all tables, detailed figures may not add to totals shown because of rounding.

<sup>7</sup> Retirement benefits include vested dual benefit and supplemental annuity payments. Survivor benefits include vested dual benefit payments.

<sup>8</sup> Includes temporary extended benefits and supplemental extended unemployment benefits paid in fiscal years 1983 and 1984.

NOTE.--Number of beneficiaries represents all individuals paid benefits in year or in transition quarter. In total number for each year, beneficiaries are counted only once, even though they may have received more than one type of benefit; in total count for transition quarter, the small number of duplications resulting from individuals being paid benefits under both the Railroad Retirement Act and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act was not removed because precise data were not available. In 1983-84, some 16,000 individuals received both retirement and survivor benefits, 11,000 employees received both unemployment and sickness benefits, and 6,000 employees received benefits under both the Railroad Retirement Act and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act. These figures are partly estimated, and totals for earlier years are similarly adjusted.

<sup>3</sup> Represents transfer of amount due at end of preceding year with interest from due date to date of transfer.

NOTE.--Under the financial interchange provision of the Railroad Retirement Act, the Board and the Secretary of Health and Human Services make annual determinations of the amounts which would place the Federal Old-Age and Survivors, Disability, and Hospital Insurance Trust Funds in the same position in which they would have been if railroad employment had been covered by the Social Security Act. All transfers are shown in year due, although some were actually made in the following year. All figures are net after adjustment for changes in prior years.

Section B -- Retirement and Survivor Benefit Statistics

This section presents data on retirement and survivor benefits provided by the Railroad Retirement Act. Regular retirement annuities are payable to employees with 10 or more years of railroad service who qualify on the basis of age or permanent disability. Age annuities may begin as early as age 60 for an employee with 30 or more years of service or at age 62 for one with 10 to 29 years of service. Disability annuities are payable at any age if the employee is permanently disabled for any regular employment. Employees with a current connection with the railroad industry may receive annuities based on disability for their regular occupation if they have attained age 60 and have at least 10 years of service, or at any age if they have at least 20 years of service.

Supplemental annuities are payable to employees age 65 or older with 25 or more years of railroad service who have a current connection with the railroad industry, some service prior to October 1981, and whose regular annuities were awarded after June 30, 1966. Employees retiring after June 1974 with 30 or more years of service are eligible to receive supplemental annuities as early as age 60.

Annuities can be paid to spouses of 30-year employees when both the employee and spouse are at least age 60. In other cases, the spouse of a retired employee age 62 or older can receive an annuity at age 62. A spouse who is caring for the employee's minor or disabled child may receive an annuity at any age. Annuities may, under certain conditions, also be payable to the divorced spouse of a retired employee.

Survivor annuities are payable to widow(er)s at age 60 or as early as age 50 if they are totally disabled. Under certain conditions, annuities are also payable to surviving children under age 18, or age 18 or over who became totally disabled before age 22, to widowed mothers (fathers) with young or disabled children in their care, and to dependent parents. In some cases, benefits could be paid to surviving children ages 18-22 attending school full-time in fiscal year 1984. Annuities may also, under certain conditions, be payable to remarried widow(er)s and divorced widow(er)s.

Annuities are calculated under two-tier formulas. The tier I portion of an employee's regular annuity is calculated under a formula similar to the one used for social security benefits. This benefit is based on the employee's taxable railroad compensation and social security-covered wages, and is reduced by the amount of any social security benefit received. The tier II portion is based on railroad service only and computed under separate formulas.

Spouse and survivor benefits are also computed according to tiers. A spouse tier I benefit equals one-half of the employee's tier I portion, before reduction for the employee's social security benefit, if any. The spouse's tier I amount is reduced by the amount of any social security benefit the spouse receives. The tier II amount is also based on the employee's tier II amount. In the case of a divorced spouse, only a tier I benefit is payable.

The survivor tier I amount is based on the deceased employee's combined railroad retirement and social security earnings and computed under the social security survivor benefit formulas. The tier II amount is generally equal to 30 percent of the tier I amount before any reduction for social security entitlement. In the case of remarried widow(er)s and divorced widow(er)s, only a tier I amount is payable.

In addition to their regular annuities, employees, spouses, and widow(er)s who were eligible for social security benefits and who met certain vesting requirements could be paid an additional annuity amount referred to as a vested dual benefit payment. This payment protects, in part, dual benefit equities previously established on the basis of credits acquired prior to 1975. Since August 1981, the award of vested dual benefit payments is restricted to vested employees with dual coverage on their own earnings.

Annuity amounts are subject to various types of reductions. In fiscal year 1983, regular annuities to employees, spouses and widow(er)s were actuarially reduced if they began before age 65, except for those payable to disabled employees, to employees retiring after June 1974 with 30 years of service and their spouses, or to spouses or widow(er)s with children in their care. Employee and spouse annuities are actuarially reduced separately in each portion, including the vested dual benefit payment. Widow(er)s' annuities are generally actuarially reduced only in tier I. However, in these cases, tier II is computed on the basis of the reduced tier I. Other miscellaneous reductions in annuities include reductions for receipt of social security benefits and deductions caused by earnings in excess of the annual exempt amount.

All current-payment status tables and award tables are based on universe data. Table B-26, however, is based partly on a four-percent sample. In tables containing rounded figures, percentages are uniformly computed from unrounded figures; also, detailed figures may not add to totals shown because of rounding. Data for awards of regular employee annuities and spouse annuities in 1983 reflect the effects of recertifications through March 31, 1984.

Some of the more important terms used above and in the tables are discussed below:

1. An employee generally has a current connection if he(she) has 12 months of railroad service in the 30 months preceding retirement. Since October 1981, a current connection may, in certain circumstances, be deemed for supplemental and survivor annuity purposes, if an employee had 25 years of service and was involuntarily terminated from rail service prior to the 30 months preceding retirement.
2. Under the special guaranty, monthly benefits under the Railroad Retirement Act are equal to at least the amount the social security system would pay on the basis of combined railroad and social security credits, less amounts actually paid by the social security system. Retirement annuities computed under the special guaranty may include allowances for family members who could not receive benefits directly under the Railroad Retirement Act.
3. Immediate retirements refer to employee annuities which began in the calendar year in which the employee last worked for a railroad or in the following year. All others are classified as deferred.
4. The average age of beneficiaries is computed as of the end of the calendar year for those on the current-payment rolls on that date and as of the annuity beginning date for those awarded annuities during the year.

NOTE.--Data partially estimated. Numbers of immediate retirements may differ from those published elsewhere as they are based on employee's age in year of last railroad service rather than year of retirement, and they include allowances for awards still to be made after 1983. Data for 1980, 1981, and 1982 are revised.

NOTE.--Data exclude 100 families where a spouse annuity was in current-payment status but the employee annuity was being temporarily withheld on December 31, 1983. Under the railroad retirement formulas, the highest amount that could be paid to an employee alone by December 31, 1983, was $1,316 if a supplemental annuity was also payable and $1,273 if not. If the employee had a spouse eligible for an annuity, the corresponding family maximums were $1,924, and $1,881 respectively. Benefits for more than these amounts are computed under a special guaranty and are sometimes paid when a beneficiary is insured under social security.

Section C -- Unemployment and Sickness Benefit Statistics

This section presents data on unemployment and sickness benefits paid to qualified railroad employees under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act. Railroad unemployment and sickness benefits, by law, are based on a July-June benefit year. Therefore, railroad unemployment and sickness insurance benefit operations are presented on a benefit year basis, rather than on a fiscal year basis.

Normal benefits of each type may be paid for as many as 130 days in a period of 26 or more weeks but may not exceed the total creditable base year compensation of the beneficiary. After exhaustion of normal benefits, an employee with 10 or more years of railroad service may receive additional benefits in an extended benefit period provided he(she) has not voluntarily retired, has not left work without good cause (for unemployment benefits only), and is less than 65 years old (for sickness benefits only). Extended benefits may be paid in a 13-week period to those with 10 to 14 years of service, and a 26-week period to those with 15 years of service.

Legislation enacted during benefit year 1982-83 provided up to 10 weeks of supplemental extended unemployment benefits to railroad workers with less than 10 years of service who had exhausted their normal benefits. The program was later extended to cover the 1983-84 benefit year for those who had not already exhausted their 10 weeks of eligibility. These benefits were financed from Federal general revenue funds.

An employee was qualified for benefit year 1983-84 if in the preceding calendar (base) year his (her) compensation for railroad work, excluding earnings over $400 a month, was $1,000 or more. Additionally, if the employee was a new entrant to the industry in the base year, he(she) must have had at least five months of service in that year. For a long-service employee (one with 10 or more years of railroad service) a benefit year could be started early if he(she) was not currently qualified but would be qualified for the next benefit year. Also, an extended benefit period could continue beyond the usual June 30 ending date of a benefit year and thus extend the duration of the employee's benefit year. Therefore, the tables in this section on payments for unemployment and sickness that occurred during the July 1983 - June 1984 period include benefits that technically were payable in extensions of the 1982-83 benefit year or accelerations of the 1984-85 benefit year as well as those payable for the general benefit year (1983-84).

Table C-2 shows the principal figures for operations in benefit year 1983-84 and other recent years. Figures in this table refer to payments made and other administrative actions taken under the unemployment and sickness programs during the designated benefit year. Table C-3 presents administrative data on placements of unemployment claimants in the past five benefit years. The remaining tables contain benefit data for unemployment and sickness which occurred in claim periods started during the particular benefit years stated in the table headings or to which reference is made in the footnotes.

Payments for maternity under a separate program were discontinued by amendments adopted in 1968. However, provision was made for payment of sickness benefits to female employees prevented from working because of pregnancy or childbirth. The sickness benefit data in this section include such payments, but in table C-4 payments under the separate maternity program are excluded from data for benefit years prior to 1968-69.

The unemployment and sickness beneficiary tables for benefit year 1983-84 include all payments made by July 31, 1984. Figures on the number of qualified employees for benefit year 1983-84 (shown in table C-1 and used in computing beneficiary rates appearing in a number of other tables) are based on universe data; prior to benefit year 1977-78, a four-percent sample was used to obtain breakdowns of qualified employees by age group and by years of railroad service.

The most important qualifications of the data for each table are shown in footnotes to the table. Certain general information and definitions of terminology are as follows:

1. Unemployment and sickness tables contain data based on universe counts. Figures shown are, for the most part, exact.
2. In tables classifying beneficiaries by occupational group, the beneficiary's occupation as reported for the base year is used. The composition of the occupational groups is described in the introduction to Section D.
3. Beneficiary rates are computed for those beneficiaries paid on the basis of eligibility in the 1983-84 benefit year, while exhaustion rates are computed with respect to beneficiaries paid normal benefits for the 1983-84 or accelerated 1984-85 benefit year. Exhaustion rates do not indicate the percentage receiving the last possible payments because many beneficiaries can receive further payments in extended benefit periods.

4. Benefits are paid for compensable days of unemployment or sickness at a daily rate equal to 60 percent of the employee's last daily rate of pay in the base year, subject to a $25.00 maximum and a $12.70 minimum.
5. Creditable days are those claimed and allowed as days of unemployment or sickness. Initially, sickness benefits are paid after four consecutive creditable days in the registration period in which a particular sickness began, up to a maximum of 10 compensable days. In subsequent 14-day registration periods, compensable days are creditable days (not necessarily consecutive) in excess of four.
6. Unemployment benefits are paid for creditable days of unemployment in excess of four in a 14-day registration period. However, in benefit year 1983-84 unemployment due to a legal strike required a seven-day waiting period before benefits (nonretroactive) could be paid.
7. The average daily benefit in the tables is computed by dividing total benefits paid to beneficiaries in any category by total number of compensable days for the same group.
8. Weeks of unemployment and sickness (shown in tables C-16 and C-21) are accumulations of creditable days. A week is defined as 7 or fewer creditable days; 2 weeks are 8 to 14 days; 3 weeks are 15 to 21 days, etc.
9. The adjustments for other social insurance payments and personal injury settlements, taken into account in producing the sickness beneficiary tables, are understated because of the time lag in awards of retirement annuities and in settlements of claims for personal injury. The number of beneficiaries and average benefits for sickness will ultimately both be somewhat smaller than shown in these tables.

<sup>1</sup> Beneficiaries per 100 qualified employees based on data for current general benefit year; exhaustions per 100 beneficiaries refer to normal benefits only.

<sup>4</sup> Numbers of beneficiaries in 1967-68, 1970-71, 1971-72, and 1972-73 include those whose only unemployment benefits resulted from brief major strikes; except for the total amount of benefits, all other data relate to the remaining beneficiaries who were paid for regular unemployment. These numbered 93,600 in 1967-68, 99,800 in 1970-71, 117,400 in 1971-72, and 64,000 in 1972-73.

<sup>5</sup> Sickness data exclude benefits not payable because of concurrent entitlement to other social insurance benefits or because of receipt of a personal injury settlement.

NOTE.--Data based on sample tabulations through 1974-75 and total counts thereafter. Data include all unemployment and sickness in claims periods begun in the year. For this reason, and because adjustments of benefit amounts have occurred after tabulating cutoff dates, the total amounts of benefits differ substantially from the figure in Tables A-1 and C-2. Payments for extended benefit periods are included, except as noted, in figures for unemployment starting with 1957-58 and in figures for sickness starting with 1968-69. Maternity benefits are excluded from sickness data for years prior to 1968-69.

Section D -- Employment, Compensation and Coverage Statistics

This section presents data on the service and compensation of railroad employees covered under the railroad retirement and railroad unemployment insurance programs. Under the railroad retirement program, different maximums on compensation subject to retirement tax have been in effect since 1979 for tier I and tier II financing. Until 1985, the tier I maximum corresponded on a monthly basis to the annual maximum provided under current social security law. The tier II maximum is based on lower limits determined under pre-1977 social security law. The tier I and tier II monthly compensation maximums for 1983 were $2,975 and $2,225, respectively. For 1984, the tier I limit increased to $3,150 per month, while the tier II limit was $2,350 per month. Under the unemployment program, the taxable earnings base was the first $600 of each employee's monthly earnings. From mid-1959 through 1982, the base had been $400 per month. In these tables, taxable compensation, unless otherwise specified, refers to the tier I amount creditable under the Railroad Retirement Act.

Tables D-2 (for years prior to 1967), D-5 (for 1973), and D-6 are based on a four-percent sample. Total earnings amounts given in table D-12 are based on a one-percent sample. Figures based on samples are rounded and are subject to the usual sampling errors which, except for some of the smaller numbers, are relatively small and do not invalidate conclusions drawn from the data.

The more important qualifications of the data are shown in footnotes to the tables.

Certain general observations about the figures and definitions of the terminology used are as follows:

1. Class of employer is based on classifications established for reporting to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Class I railroads in 1983 were those with operating revenues totaling $83.49 million or more per year, class II railroads were those with less than $83.49 million but at least $16.7 million in operating revenues, and class III railroads were those with less than $16.7 million in operating revenues and all switching and terminal companies regardless of their operating revenues. The employer shown for employees reported by more than one employer is the last employer in the year.

2. A month of service is a month in which an employee performs any service, however slight, for which creditable railroad compensation is reported. Continuous service refers to service by an employee in one or more months of each year over a period of years. Completed years of service, on the other hand, are based on total months of service, including service before 1937; one year of service represents service in 12 to 23 months; two years, service in 24 to 35 months, etc.
3. The occupational groups used are based on combinations of reporting divisions established by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC). Code numbers of the reporting divisions for railroad employees included in the various groups are as follows:

Employees reported to the ICC under a different set of reporting divisions are included in the occupational group containing railroad employees in the same general types of occupations. Employees who worked in more than one occupation in the year are included in the occupation reported by their last employer.

After 1983, occupational data will not be available because of a new coding system introduced by the ICC and a change in the Board's requirements for reporting under the new system of codes.

4. Data in the tables are based on reports of service and compensation made by employers and processed for inclusion in the Board's data processing records shortly after the end of the calendar year. A small number of individuals who worked for railroads in 1983 are not included in the tables because of delayed reports or errors in identifying information; figures for earlier years have been adjusted to include similar omissions from the original data.
